

Må befrielsen aldrig komme

– en kommentar til Andres Dobats debatindlæg "Befrielsens øjeblik"

Abstract

May the Liberation never come – a comment on the article by Andres Dobat: "The Moment of Liberation"

In a debate article, Andres Dobat (Dobat 2023) raised the question: if a commercial archaeology in Denmark would offer a better alternative, to the existing "state-authorized" model. Through statistics, that seem misleading and selective, combined with an un-informed view on the archaeology conducted at Danish museums, Dobat argues that the museums would experience a moment of liberation through a privatization of the archaeology sector. I do not agree with his argumentation. The museums are in fact doing a lot more research than Dobat includes. They also involve themselves in outreach-projects with the surrounding society with the purpose of engaging and sharing knowledge. He admits to this, although it is mostly overlooked throughout the article.

Esben Aarsleff